New York. December 17.—A large number of gamblers are preparing to leave for the South and West, having become convinced that the police are determined to keep their establishments closed. A beavy fog prevails to-day. Collisions

The enemy will gain time and territory, and we will have cause to deplore the criminal vacillation, and without great and united we will have cause to deplete the criminal vacilation, and without great and united movement on our part, the war will drag on as it has to the present hour. It has consumed annually, from ten to fifteen thousand soldiers and forty million dollars. When we find ourselves fallen never to rise again, we will bitterly regret our short sighted lack of preparation. Mr. Stephens and the Salary Grab, Our readers had yesterday in our editorial columns a characteristically able letter from Mr. Stephens in answer to certain comments of THE CONSTITUTION on the salary grab and his defence of it. It is needless for us to say that upon his sincerity and integrity or courage we have not made, for will we make, any imputation. Mr. Stephens has not shared in the back pay. We have no doubt that his defence of others who did take it is very chivairous, but he utters no word to convince us that the back pay business was not an indefensible spoliation, or that his defence of it is not a blunder in himself.

Let us look at the facts. The numbers of the last Congress served until the close of the last Congress served until the close of the left instant, by Rev. - alter Knox, Mr. Rewinders in Massion. The law fixed their pay. They drew said pay and receipted the government for age we have not made, Lor will we make,

The cause of her death was typhose fever. $5,000 a piece of more pay for the work already done at the price regulated by law, already paid for, and settled up by receipt o the members to the government. We care not who has done the thing be fore, nor how often it has been done, nor how often it may be done in the absence of a law forbidding it that ought to be passed we say that it is not right. That it is a vio righteous ebulition of correct popular senti-ment, which we approve, and which is most hopeful proof that there is yet among the righteous ebulition of correct popular sentiment, which we approve, and which is most hopeful proof that there is yet among the people an unquenched sense of public virtue.

Mr. Stephens alludes to Mr. Clay as an exemplar of the back pay matter. Let us call Mr. Stephens' attention to the fact that when the Congress, of which Mr. Clay was a member, perpetrated the back pay spoliation these preparated the back pay spoliation these preparated the back pay spoliation these preparated the services of the servi member, perpetrated the back pay spolia-

A few months ago the world laughed, (it might have been thocked were such a thing possible from that source) when Beastor Brownlow expressed the conviction that the services of a Benator, and especially his own, were worth to the government ten thousand dollars per annum. Mr. Stephens, it appears, has outhereded Hered; he thinks a Benator ought to be paid full fifty per cent. on Brownlow's estimate, or fifteen thousand dollars, and that a president would be chesp enough at one hundred thousand! Did the gentleman ever think for a moment where the money is to come from? We doubt if hewfill make many converts to his "purple and fine lines" decirine among honest merchants and workingmen of the country, through whose awest and tears the means are to come for the support of this royal splendor at Washington.

The past sighting was the explain current beet there.

The matrix has been proposed of Georgia, the waster of a million of diluss and private as a significant of the standard private and the stand into public treasury. Despite Mr. Siephens plea of "precedent," no such spectacle had ever before been wheeseed in our country. The honest pride and moral sense of the whole nation, if not of the christian world, were sense below shocked by an act of its world and the south fews more hone prints and continued by the charter, and the essential attributes of a public theory. To go to the root of the whole matter, notwithstanding the Constitution provides that the compensation of members of Congress shall be "ascertained by law," which can only be made by Congress, it is clear to our mind that Congressmen have no moral right to regulate their own pay. It was done ex necessitate rei by these who composed the first Congress, and a bad practice has grown up on the fact which has been tortured into a precedent. It is a privilege accorded to nobody else in the world except legislators and it is wrong in principle. It places power where it does not rightfully belong, and invests it with a thousand temptations to shows. Human nature is frail and government should guard society against its errors and its crimes. Experience has shown that neither the sense of right nor the fear of constituents, nor, the two combined, have been strong enough to afford that protection where avertice is arrayed against them. Practically the power both demoralises the representative and works great wrong to the constituent. If the principle be a correct suit size one the President and Governors of Seases should be allowed the same privilega, for in one sense they are part of the law making power and equally responsible to the people, while it would be far asfer in their hands, for there would be no division of responsibility. It is an old sore, and should be healed up without delay. We hope to see every Constitution in existence that contains such a clame amended so as allow legislative bodies to fix the pay only of their uccession. Central Road having final notice of the ina structions of the agent, which did not include any such power of exchange. When the Gulf Railroad iron was in fact taken possession of and moved, which was done by the confederate Quartermaster's Department, five hundred tons of it was under this contract turned over to the Central Road, the road sending forward from Savannah to the agent at Macon the same amount of old iron and paying the difference to the sgent. The Gulf iron was not paid for, nor appraised, as required by the instructsons of the Confederate Secretary of the Navy.

This action was brought in 1865 by the A & G. R. against the Central to recover the iron. It was in the proof that the iron was laid down on the Central Road in 1863; that a large portion of the track of the Central Road was broken up by General Sherman in 1864, and the iron on the track bent so set to be of no use for reliroad purposes and that much of it was rold for forty dollars per ton.
The iron was proven to have cost the Gulf Road ninety-eight dollars in 1867, and the Central seventy-five dellars also in 1867.
The jury found for the plaintiff the highest value of iron proven with interest from the date of the suit.

Various questions were made upon the charges and refusels to charge by the Judge.
Both parties insist upon the hypothesis that it was competent for the Confederate States' Government, proceeding seconding to its Opsituation and laws, to impress property for war purposes, and thus to divest the title of the true owner, and no question was made on that point.

The Court charged that is no event could out a solitary parallel case in our Congressional history—a case where Congressmen served for a session, drew their pay for it, went home, and the year after returned to Washington, and voted themselves 50 per
